ABOUT ME

Full Stack Software Developer & Data Analyst with a knack for building robust, scalable applications and transforming raw data into actionable insights that drive real business impact. I thrive at the intersection of code and data—crafting seamless user experiences on the front end while engineering efficient back-end systems and uncovering hidden patterns through advanced analytics. With expertise across the full stack (React, Node.js, Python, JavaScript, SQL/NoSQL databases) and data tools (Python/Pandas, Tableau, Power BI, machine learning basics), I deliver end-to-end solutions that not only perform flawlessly but also inform smarter decisions.

WORK EXPERIENCE

Data Analyst & Full Stack Developer June 2025 – now Benedict Cafe

Developed and maintained full stack applications for restaurant operations, including backend, frontend, and database systems. Conducted data analysis and BI reporting to optimize sales and workflows. Leveraged development tools to rapidly prototype, debug, and deploy reliable software. Integrated POS, CRM, and internal databases for a seamless data-driven environment. Architected application logic, solved complex errors, and iterated on features to ensure fully functional solutions.
